QUESTION #1

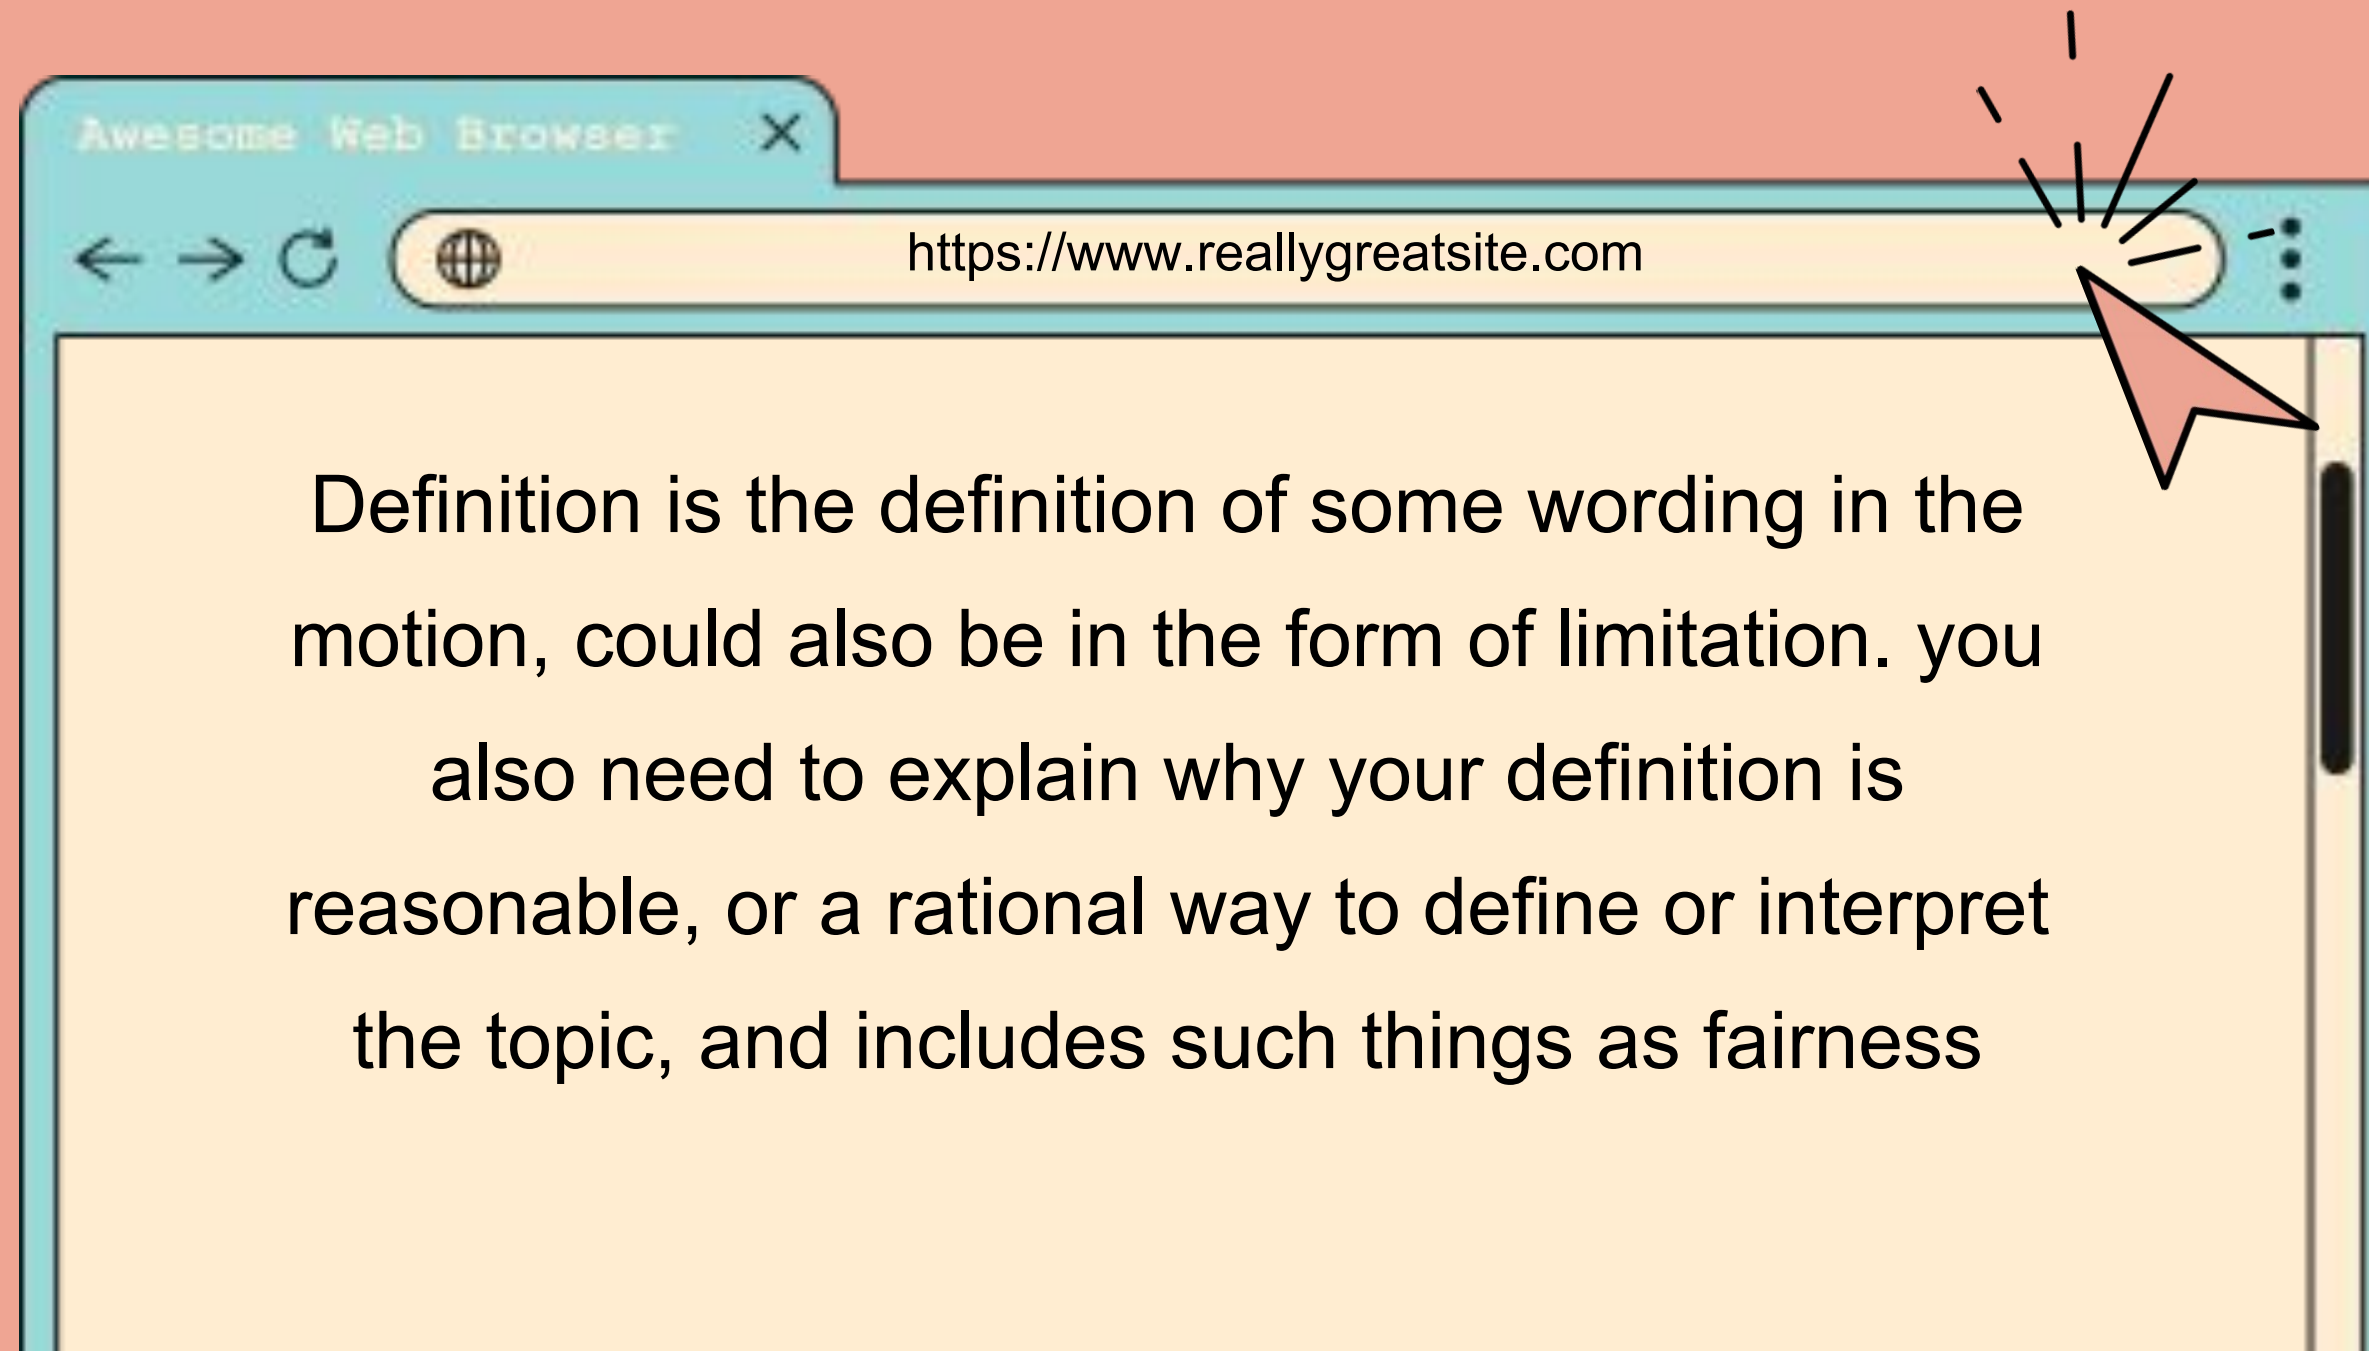

What Is Background?

QUESTION #2

what is Defintion

QUESTION #3

what is Stance?

Stance is where your opinion falls on a subject/matter, and whether or not you agree (also known as the “Affirmative” stance), or disagree (known as the “Negative” stance). A good example would be to look at a topic that is often argued over.

Basically is how do you stand in the motion.

Stance also consist of goal or things that you want to achieve example

- protect vulnerable actor
- maintain condition or principle

QUESTION #4

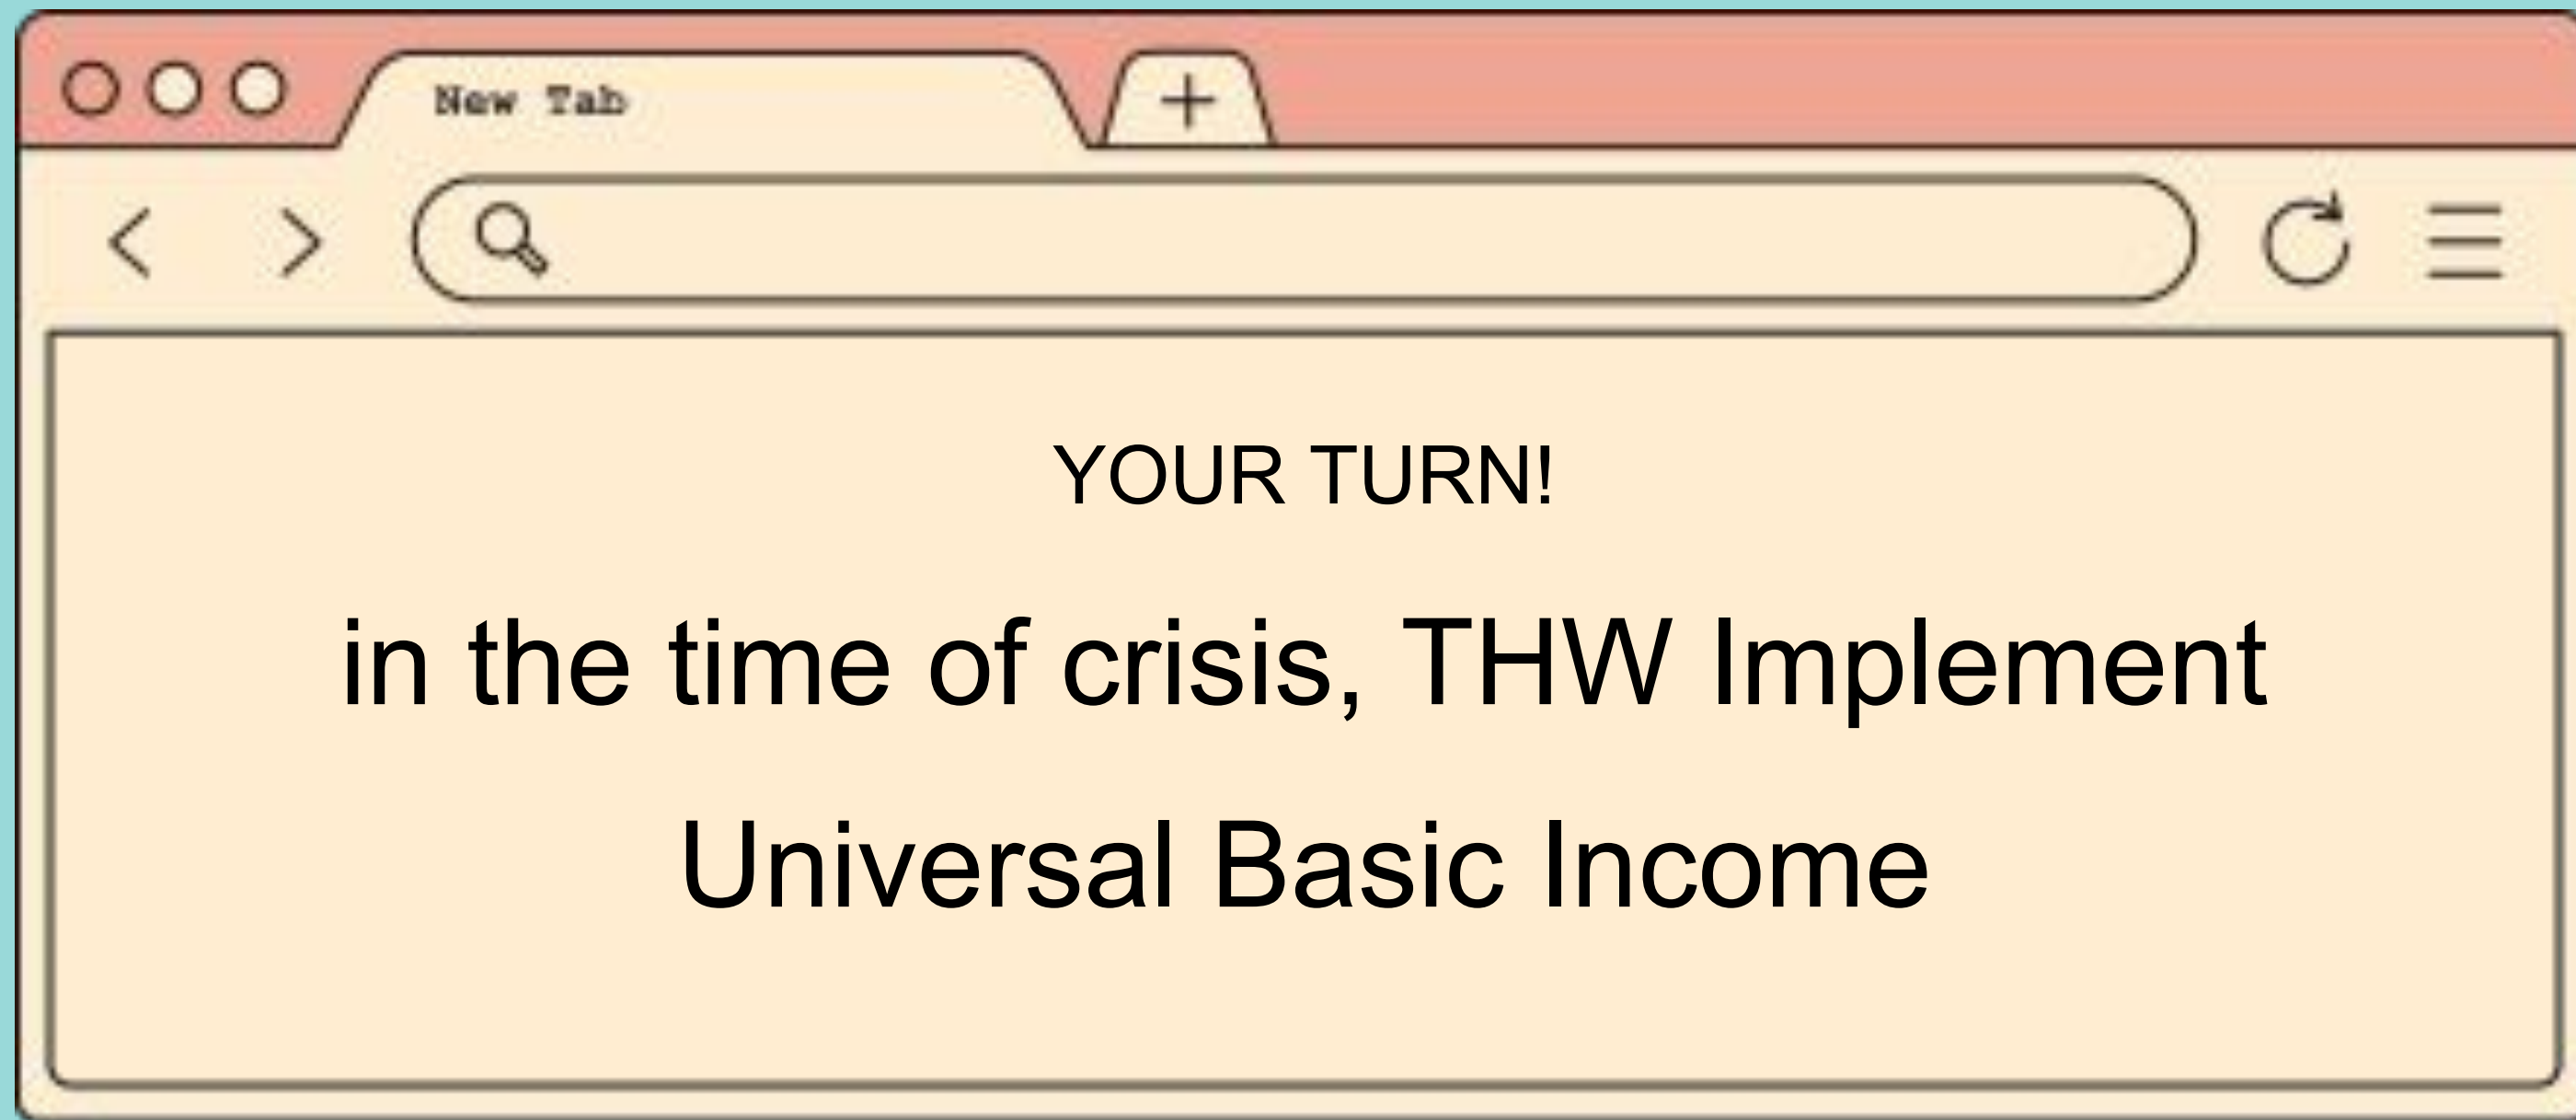

What Is Mechanism/Model

Awesome Web Browser X

Mechanism/model, steps on how to implement motion/ steps to achieve the goal

In most empirical debates, models are not necessary, as the topic in itself does not demand action in any form; however, it is possible to use models to make empirical topics clearer; for example, on the topic, 'That schools are responsible for cyberbullying,' the affirmative could propose a model under which schools would have to arbitrate and monitor online actions of their students. The model should include how you are going to implement the motion, when you are going to implement the motion.
